DEPORTATIONS ARE DISCUSSED BY M.P.'S

Bill to Change Law Governing Indigent Aliens Moved By A. A. Heaps Voted Out in Commons By Six Months' Hoist

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—A bill sponsored by A. A. Heaps, Labor member for Winnipeg North, seeking changes in the laws governing deportation of indigents, was given a six months' hoist on a vote in the Commons yesterday evening. The bill, which would make it optional with municipalities to report to Dominion immigration officials the names of aliens on relief who had been in Canada less than five years and therefore were subject to deportation. At present the law makes this report obligatory.

Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration, opposed the Heaps bill and moved a six months' hoist because he said it would cancel uniform regulations across Canada dealing with undesirable aliens. It would remove control from the Dominion and place it in a multitude of municipal clerks throughout the country.

THREATS DENIED
At the same time, the Immigration Minister claimed threats of deportation were never held over the heads of Aliens on relief. "On a review of the facts of each case, I know of no case, I know of no occasion, in which deportation has been invoked where there was even a fair possibility of the alien being absorbed into gainful employment in this country," he said.

"Under Section 46 of the Immigration Act, as it stands, when a person who has been in this country less than five years becomes a public charge, as the section reads, it becomes the duty of any officer cognizant of the facts and the duty of the clerk, secretary or other official of any municipality in Canada, forthwith to send a written complaint thereof to the minister," said Mr. Gordon.

"On the minister receiving the complaint the situation is reviewed, and if it appears in the judgment of the minister that an alien who is here on probation is undesirable by reason of being a public charge, then deportation may be ordered."

WINNIPEG SITUATION
He had every sympathy with Mr. Heaps, continued Mr. Gordon, because of the local situation in Winnipeg; but the change that was sought would remove a person who was a public charge from the operation of the section and it no longer became the duty of municipal officers to report the situation to the federal authority, leaving it in their discretion whether to do so or not.

"In other words," Mr. Gordon said, "a different sort of law may prevail in different municipalities of Canada because the clerks are not likely to adopt a uniformity of view." "I have gone further," said Mr. Gordon, "recognizing as I do the difficulty in certain sections of Canada for people to get employment, and I have had other officers seek employment for people who seem to be unable to take advantage of the opportunities that present themselves to others more active."

BRITISHERS AFFECTED
A. W. Neill, Independent, Comox-Alberni, recalled to the minister that native-born Britishers were affected by the act. He cited instances of deportation of Britons.

The amendment of Mr. Heaps found support from Sam Factor, Liberal, Toronto West Centre.

"It seems the government is determined to keep this law as it now stands," said J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre. "There is not the slightest doubt it is a very harsh piece of legislation."

BACK TO SCOTLAND
Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Liberal, Vancouver Centre, supported the bill on the ground it gave a "human discretion" to the municipal officer. Thousands of people had been improperly sent back to Scotland under the iniquitous legislation of the statute

"PHONE TERRORS" BUSY IN REGINA

Regina, Feb. 21.—The "telephone terrors," believed to be a group of young public school pupils, are rapidly reducing several Regina school teachers to nervous wrecks. Many teachers have been called from their beds at 1, 2 and even 3:30 a.m. to hear an apparently young voice ask some silly question.

The bill represented a "humanitarian amendment."

CHARLES PONZI TO BE SALESMAN

Boston, Feb. 21.—Charles Ponzi's outlook on life was slightly more encouraging today.

The "get-rich-quick wizard" to whom thousands ran with their savings back in 1919 has secured a job as a wholesale provision salesman. He will probably begin his duties immediately.

Ponzi was recently released from the State prison after serving a term for his "investment" activities.

NEW ARMED FORCE IN IRELAND SOON

Dublin, Irish Free State, Feb. 21.—The ministry of defence yesterday evening announced a new Irish territorial force would be established and its members would wear uniforms similar to those of the famous "Irish Brigade" which Roger Casement, later hanged for treason, attempted to form in Germany for the 1916 Irish Rebellion.

The new force will consist of infantry, artillery, air corps, cavalry and auxiliary units and will be recruited from the various counties of the Free State. The present strength of the Free State army is 346 commissioned officers and 5,556 non-commissioned officers.

The uniform will be of grey-green cloth.

POSTMASTERS ARE HEARD AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—Prime Minister Bennett today had received officials of the Canadian Postmasters' Association and promised to give consideration to a number of requests they made in connection with the postal service. Inequalities in the application of the 10 per cent civil service salary deduction were complained of. Mr. Bennett stressed the difficult financial position of the government and regretted it was impossible to effect a deduction without working a hardship on someone. The government, he said, was most sympathetic towards rural postmasters on small salaries. He hoped revenue would continue to improve so some relief might be afforded.

EDMONTON ZOO SNAKE EATS RAT

Edmonton, Feb. 21.—Crotalus Oreganus smelled a rat and for the first time in twenty months succumbed to the pangs of hunger.

For nearly two years Crotalus, a rattlesnake in the zoological laboratory at the University of Alberta here, had gone without a morsel. This week, however, Crotalus' mouth watered. He gobbled up a rat when no one was looking and stretched himself out in his box with a sigh of contentment.

As a rule, rattlesnakes in captivity feed four or five times a year, following periodical changes of garments. Crotalus is one of two snakes sent to the university from the Okanagan Valley two years ago by Rupert Warren.

Man Admits He Shared in Ransom

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Walter A. "Buck" Hendrichsen, former $50,000 ransom driver for Roger Touhy's gang, broke down on the witness stand yesterday and admitted he helped to collect $70,000 ransom last July 12 for the release of John Factor.

Hendrichsen, a policeman turned gangster, decided to make the admission after being confronted by Isaac Coster, admitted member of the kidnap band, who turned state's evidence, and pointed out the three defendants were—Touhy, Alvin Karpis, and Gustav Schaefer—as among the men he worked with in the abduction.

Period of Grants To Be Extended

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—Legislation extending the time for provinces to expend their allowance for technical education under the original act of 1919 will be introduced in Parliament. Saskatchewan, Manitoba and New Brunswick are the three provinces affected under the proposed bill.

Preliminary resolution placed on the order of the House of Commons yesterday by Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, said:

MIGRATION PLANS ARE POSTPONED

London, Feb. 21.—The British government is convinced it would be an ill-advised move at this time to approach Dominion governments with large schemes of migration, the House of Lords was told by a government spokesman yesterday evening at the conclusion of a full-dress debate on emigration.

After several members of the Upper Chamber had urged action toward revival of emigration, in cooperation with the other governments of the empire, the Earl of Lucan, on behalf of the government, said it was hoped the report of an advisory committee appointed by the Secretary of Dominion Affairs would be available in a few weeks. Successful migration, however, was dependent on the markets for the goods produced by the migrants. Lord Lucan pointed out. Until there were reasonable prospects of such markets premature schemes of migration might do more harm than good.

The government was convinced that at the present time, when it was asking the Dominions to assist the United Kingdom by restricting shipments to the United Kingdom, as in the case of Canadian cattle and oats, in the interests of home producers, it would be inadvisable to approach the Dominion governments with large schemes of migration.

U.S. SUGAR LEGISLATION

Washington, Feb. 21 (Associated Press).—Rumblings of revolt among representatives from beet sugar producing areas of the United States over the administration's sugar programme had been quieted today by assurance from President Roosevelt that he was not hostile to the industry, and that modification would be made in pending sugar legislation.

NOW UNDER WAY

If the duration of the session of the Legislature which was opened yesterday with the usual ceremonial observances were judged by the length of the Speech from the Throne, a few weeks would see the members speeding to their homes with the Lieutenant-Governor's benediction. But experience has taught us that there is a wide gap between promise in the Speech and performance in the House, and that a brief outline of the session's programme at the opening may be followed by prolonged proceedings and the enactment of considerable legislation not in the initial forecast.

The Speech read by His Honor yesterday was a model of brevity, and if the members will use it as a model in this respect in their contributions to the various debates it will serve a more useful purpose than most pronouncements of this character. Brief speeches are more effective than long ones. Not many people care to listen to, or read, lengthy deliverances, the chief points of which invariably are lost in an ocean of verbiage. The British parliamentary practice in regard to short speeches is well worth adopting. If there had been more time between the end of the conference at Ottawa and the opening of the session the programme of measure to be introduced by the government would have been longer. The gathering of the four western Premiers here, called shortly after the new government took office, followed afterward by the meeting at Ottawa attended by the Premier and some of his ministers, left the administration with little opportunity to arrange for more than the measures set forth in the Speech from the Throne. These consist of legislation affecting labor and industry; the economic council; the organization of a Department of Municipalities; administration; mortgages and purchasers' relief; exemption from taxation in the lower scale of wages and salaries; debt refunding.

Until these various bills have been introduced it is impossible to ascertain just what the government has in mind in regard to the subjects which they deal. At the moment some of them have wide implications. The debt-refunding proposal concerns the acutely pressing matter of provincial finance, which in itself has ramifications affecting municipal finance and industry, and which, with the related question of unemployment, constitutes the most important problem with which the new government is confronted. Evidently it is not the intention of the administration to proceed this session with a number of other matters to which it is committed, such, for example, as the establishment of a public utilities board and highway commission. These apparently are being reserved for the next session.

In his happy remarks before the close of the proceedings yesterday Premier Pattullo commented upon the high quality of the membership of the new House as well as its diversified character. This compliment was altogether deserved, since among the representatives who were returned in the recent election may be found some of the ablest administrative, industrial and professional leaders of the province, as well as some of the keenest and best-informed students of public affairs. Seldom has a new Legislature had so many able debaters in its membership.

If an adequate opportunity is afforded for the fullest exercise of the ability which is represented in the House the province should benefit accordingly. There is every indication that in Hon. H. G. Perry, the Legislature will have a capable Speaker, who will fairly and expeditiously control its deliberations. Mr. Perry is an experienced parliamentarian, familiar with legislative procedure, and there is every prospect that his selection as presiding officer will be fully justified by his record.

HOW WE SPENT IT

Here are a few pertinent facts regarding governmental finance in Canada. Total annual expenditures by the Dominion, provinces and municipalities, nearly $1,000,000,000, of which debt charges accounted for 23.62 per cent; education, 17.32 per cent; protection of persons and property, including national defence, 14.66; communications, 14.60 per cent; legislation and general overhead, 12.29 per cent; public welfare and charity, 6.72 per cent.

It is significant that public welfare and charity are a poor last on the list. It is also worth noting that nearly forty per cent of Canada's revenue is on war account, twenty-seven per cent being interest on war debt. In the light of this revelation, apart from even more important considerations, it ought to be easy to appreciate the observations of Mr. R. H. Manion, Minister of Railways at Ottawa, that "Canada's objective is that war should be renounced as a method of national policy in dealing with other nations, and that all international disputes of whatever kind should be settled by pacific means."

A MAN OF VISION

Walter Wellman died the other day at seventy-five. He was the first man to try to fly across the Atlantic Ocean, and when he made the attempt the stunt was looked on as the ultimate in foolhardy daring.

It is commonplace to say that aerial science has developed rapidly in the last quarter century. One hardly realizes how true that saying is, however, until one glances at the career of a man like Wellman.

It was October 15, 1910, that Mr. Wellman started his projected transatlantic flight. The takeoff was from Atlantic City; the ship was a non-rigid dirigible, a clumsy and fragile affair 164 feet long, with a gas bag capacity of 350,000 cubic feet.

Underneath the bag was slung a life-boat stocked with provisions. Down into the sea trailed a device called an "equilibrator"—a series of cylindrical tanks which floated on the ocean, expected to act as a sort of stabilizer, to keep the ship from rising too high in the air. Besides Mr. Wellman, five men were aboard.

The take-off was at eight in the morning. Twenty-four hours later—half of the first day having been spent repairing one of the two engines, which had quit cold—the dirigible had reached a point some 250 miles northeast of its starting point.

The voyage had been excessively perilous. The hydrogen in the envelope cooled and contracted dangerously, nearly pitching the ship into the water. A collision with a steamer narrowly was averted.

One of the engines' exhaust pipes nearly set the bag on fire. The equilibrator, instead of working as expected, made the ship almost impossible to steer.

Another twenty-four hours passed, and conditions became worse. The dirigible was some 400 miles out now, and it was pretty plain that Europe never would be reached. Preparations were made to take to the water in the lifeboat, but it was found impossible to launch it.

Next morning, providentially, a steamer showed up. Signaled by the dirigible, it came alongside, Wellman and his crew came aboard, and the dirigible was left to float out to sea.

So ended the first transatlantic flight attempt.

It took place less than twenty-five years ago. Since then, enormous dirigibles have crossed and recrossed the Atlantic times without number. Ocean flying is almost ready to play a useful part in the everyday life of the world.

And a good part of the credit must go to daring, "foolhardy" pioneers like Walter Wellman.

A BIG JOB

The special committee of the House of Commons, under the chairmanship of the Hon. H. H. Stevens, appointed to investigate the distribution of commodities, has got under way, its first meeting having been held yesterday. While the chief subject of inquiry is the spread between the price paid producers for commodities and the cost to consumers, the field in which the committee will operate is of wide dimensions.

In introducing his motion for the appointment of the committee, Prime Minister Bennett defined its duties under numerous heads. "The investigators are to look into the systems of distribution in Canada of farm and other natural products, as well as manufactured products, and particularly to investigate the following:

The effect of mass buying by big mercantile organizations upon the retail trade of the country;

Labor conditions prevailing in industries supplying the requirements of such mercantile organizations, the extent, if any, to which existing conditions have been brought about by the purchasing practices of these establishments and the effect upon the standard of living of the employees;

The relation between the flour milling industry and the bakeries of the country;

The methods and system prevailing in the marketing of livestock and animal products for domestic consumption and export, and the extent to which the present system affords or restricts opportunity for fair returns to producers.

The foregoing is a comprehensive commission for the committee to perform, and it is hard to see how the job can be completed properly in time for the presentation of a report and recommendations and the enactment of resultant important legislation, for many weeks.

For example, one factor in the spread between the price paid to the producers of commodities and the cost to the consumers is the high tariff. It will be interesting to see if the committee will touch that controversial subject.

Will the committee also investigate over-capitalization, which, as everybody knows, is another big contributor to the spread between price and cost? In fact, there is involved in this matter innumerable considerations which the committee should not ignore if its report is to be more than a casual or routine affair.

A notable figure in the audience on the floor of the House yesterday was ex-Premier Tolmie, who bore, instead of the scars of the recent campaign, his familiar expansive smile. We doubt if anybody present enjoyed the spectacle with so little mental reservation.

Premier Pattullo's graceful tribute to Mr. R. H. Pooley on his long service in the Legislature was one of the pleasing features of the opening proceedings yesterday. Mr. Pooley was elected to the House first in 1912, and has sat there continuously ever since, as private member, leader of the opposition and Attorney-General. Although in the prime of his years he is, in point of service, the father of the Legislature.

Therefore—ignoring the many other issues involved—social welfare is better served by sterilizing the feeble-minded in the sure biometric knowledge that the gaps left in the next generation by their sterility will be filled by an equivalent extra number of children from normal parents, who will at least have the benefit of the reasonable care which the feeble-minded parents would not be able to give them.

REPERCUSSION
The Hamilton Spectator

Complaint made by a local advertiser that one of the dairy companies was paying a driver only $10 a week, which was held to be disgraceful, has had a curious repercussion. The manager of the dairy in question reports that this particular employee had been receiving city relief of $4 a week, that he was given employment out of sympathy, that while it is true he was being paid only $10 a week, he worked only four hours a day; and, finally, that because of the aldermanic complaint, the employee in question has been given notice his services will no longer be required and he will go back on the city's relief roll.

FAMILY PARTY

WE OPENED THE Eighteenth Legislature of British Columbia yesterday with the old familiar flourish, and with that proper air of rich solemnity but, before we were half finished, it suddenly turned into a genial family party in Mr. Pattullo's best style.

The opportunity is all familiar now, the formalities a little worn in every when you have seen them a dozen times or so, but somehow, even to the oldest-timer, they bring a little surprise and thrill, and after them, when Mr. Pattullo amiably breaks all the rules, and has not seen her before, his old friend, Mr. Pooley, about his diminishing primrose, and Mr. Pooley talks glibly about his wallflowers—well, the opening of the Eighteenth Legislature becomes such a cozy, neighborly visit among British Columbians as we have not seen here before.

And how young and immaculate, how free from guile the Eighteenth Legislature looks as it meets for the first time. How radiant with its young illusions shining on its face! How blithely it shoulders the heaviest burdens of British Columbia's history, not realizing, perhaps, just how heavy they will become before the journey of four years is over! But before the day is finished we have it from the lips of the prime minister himself that it is the most intelligent Legislature in history, and no one in the assembly presumes to question it.

NEW FACES

THERE ARE A few old faces here as we wait for the Lieutenant-Governor to arrive, but most of them are new and unknown to the capital. At the right sits the front row of cabinet ministers, in their uniforms of morning coats and gray cravats. Mr. Hart looking well content, and at ease as if he had never left the House for those long years, as if the blue volume of public accounts on his desk didn't contain a deficit of nearly eight millions—Mr. Sloan, young and handsome and already at home in the benches where his father used to sit; Dr. Weir who, as Provincial Secretary, had the task of uttering the first words to be heard by the Eighteenth Legislature; the other ministers all business-like and alert.

Behind them are such old-timers as Mr. Barrow, Dr. Sutherland and Mr. Perry, the latter sitting in an obscure corner with the careless look of a man who is expecting something to happen to him and is doing his best to disguise it. Another young politician, too, where his distinguished namesake used to sit and her desk is gay with floral tributes to her sex.

Across the aisle sits the new opposition, the first C.C.F. opposition in history, an opposition of Socialists, the great Unknown Quantity. At the head of the row is the grave, bearded, ascetic-looking man who will lead the Socialists, the Rev. Robert Connell, about whom, as Mr. Pattullo is careful to say, we have heard nothing but good. His followers look rather grimly, as if they were in the guided ceremonies, but not of them, as if they would prefer, like Cromwell, to sweep the Mace from the table and all the formalities from the chamber, saying, "away with these baubles!" as if they were eager to get down right away to the business of saving the country.

LATER ON

BUT THEY HAVE to wait in silence and dignity for that pleasure. They will have plenty of opportunity later on. Other grim and earnest gentlemen must wait, too—Mr. McGee, looking to very somberly after his unburned after his Honorable trip; Mr. Manson, in the back row, arms folded, head down, eyes closed; and down in the corner the little gallant band of Independents, Unionists and Non-partisans, as if the government who placed them there together suspected them of a common Conservative instinct.

What a pathetic little band it is after the last Legislature! Only one yellow Conservative primrose is there instead of thirty-five, a single yellow bloom in the lapel of Mr. Pooley, perhaps as Dr. Tolmie looks across the room from a spectator's seat in the opposite side he is thinking of a similar day five years ago when he sat in the same party. Perhaps he is thinking that many things can happen in five years.

THE GUNS

AND NOW THE guns begin to boom, echoing and re-echoing across the harbor, martial music wells in from the front steps. The Lieutenant-Governor is coming with his guard of officers, whose swords, spurs and medals clink merrily as they walk, breaking a silence almost funeral.

Then follows the ancient ritual. Dr. Weir announces that the Governor does not choose to say why he has called the House together until it has appointed a Speaker, but hopes he may be able to say something later on. The Governor retires, the swords, medals and spurs jingling as before. The Premier moves and Mr. Connell seconds that Mr. Perry be Speaker. Mr. Perry looks appropriately surprised and gratified, having doubtless never expected such a thing to happen to him. The Premier and Mr. Connell lead Mr. Perry to the throne, holding him by either arm, as if he were under arrest, and might make a desperate attempt to escape at any moment. But Mr. Perry goes quietly, having philosophically decided that there is no way out for him.

Mr. Perry declares an adjournment and retires. He returns a moment later in a three-cornered hat and a black robe which, with a prophetic instinct he has somehow purchased in advance. Everything goes smoothly like clockwork. Mr. Perry and Sergeant-at-Arms Martin having, by mere accident, rehearsed the whole proceeding and drilled the pages for an hour on the preceding day.

GENEROUS OFFER

THE GOVERNOR appears again. Mr. Perry tells him that he has been elected Speaker but is entirely unfitted for the job really, so if anything goes wrong, if the House should do anything, it shouldn't, well, will His Honor please blame Mr. Perry for everything? Like a good sport, Mr. Perry accepts this vast responsibility for everything with a magnificent gesture. He also claims for the House all its ancient privileges, which Dr. Weir is pleased to announce will be granted.

The Speech from the Throne, resplendent in white parchment and red silk ribbon, is handed to His Honor by Mr. Fairbairn, his secretary. The speech is read and anyone who knows anything about provincial politics knows that its well-rounded diction is the work of no one but the Prime Minister, and though it hurts one acutely to point it out on such a festive occasion, stern truth forces one to observe one flaw in grammar, one confusion in the tense of a verb. But then, even Homer sometimes nodded.

The Governor leaves again. Mr. Perry comes back, makes his own House now, and a thoroughly competent and able master, too. Briefly he announces that he has secured a copy of the speech to avoid mistakes, which would be serious indeed. Effusively and without hesitation, he pushes it through the remains formalities.

Then we pause for a moment to pay tribute to a great old warrior who used to battle in these halls, the late William John Bower. Mr. Pattullo's eulogy of him is extremely generous and spoken from the heart. Mr. Pooley speaks simply and with feeling, as Mr. Bower's first lieutenant in the old days of Conservative opposition. The last recognition of a great career in this chamber is a silent, standing vote.

CONGRATULATIONS

THIS COMPLETES the formal programme, all carefully planned in advance. But just as we think that the day is finished, Mr. Pattullo casts aside this consequential air and welcomes the new Legislature, every man of it, as his guests and friends. He begins with the ripe phrase that "one is struck with the fact that in no sphere do the ravages of time play a greater part than in public life," but this is only a formal opening. What he really wants to say is a personal, friendly word of greeting, such as is not contemplated or permitted in the starchy rules of order.

He looks over at his old friend, Mr. Pooley, and congratulates him on reaching his twenty-second year of membership in the House. He disregards the solemnity of the occasion entirely to observe that Mr. Pooley still cultivates Conservative primroses, but that the blooms seem to be growing remarkably rare in these premises.

He observes his old friends and colleagues, Mr. Manson and Dr. Sutherland, who re the only other surviving survivors of the 1912 election—except for the member for Prince Rupert, whom he does not name.

He congratulates Mr. Hart and wonders what that gentleman has under his patriarchal grey hair for the future, but contacts himself with the thought that he shall soon know.

He congratulates Dr. K. C. MacDonald, another battle-scarred veteran. He congratulates Mr. Barrow. He even congratulates Mr. McGee, "who has been devoting himself to questions of great public import, and has very deservedly received wide publicity therefore," which is surely turning the other cheek in the most forgiving, Christian fashion.

He congratulates Mrs. Smith as representing the sex "where most our affections lie," a pretty compliment, which makes Mr. Smith blush a little. He congratulates Mr. Uphill whom, if a Liberal could not make it, he is glad to see elected.

He congratulates the C.C.F. and its selection of its leader.

He congratulates Mr. Perry, who will add lustre to the traditions of his office.

TALENT

FINALE, he congratulates himself and the whole quinity on the fact that this Legislature is the most talented within his public experience in the last quarter of a century. This remark, which takes in a lot of territory, makes the whole Legislature beam, and the spectators beam with it. But Mr. Pattullo adds that this only makes its responsibilities the greater, for "from him who hath shall most be expected."

It is an excellent opening speech. It is not provided for in the ritual. It is human and generous and kindly, and it sets this first session of the Legislature off with a feeling of friendliness very rare in these premises. Also, it is an auspicious beginning for Mr. Pattullo's leadership in this House.

Our good-humor, indeed, knows no bounds. Mr. Pooley feels he must rise and thank Mr. Pattullo, and especially for his reference to the Conservative primroses, for, says Mr. Pooley, while they may be scarce here, they still grow luxuriantly in Beaulieu. And Mr. Pooley adds this excellent piece of wit: "While I was picking the primroses today, I saw a wallflower growing beside them and I wondered whether I ought to wear it instead."

Everybody laughs at this. The public guffaws. Mr. Perry permits himself to smile, and while he says that the remarks of the two "distinguished gentlemen" are out of order, he fails to do anything about it. And so we adjourn to the Premier's reception in excellent spirits after the jolliest and friendliest opening day we have ever known.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALICE MICHAELIS

SEA BUNGER

One hunger strike forever
And all day long
The urge is strong.
The hunger for the sea.
The salty sea-wind blowing.
The great resistance tide.
Like fleeing bloom,
I cannot be denied.
Though many had would bind me
To one full island place,
I will arise
As white gull flies
And seek the ocean's face!
The sea's unnumbered voices
Are all that I need:
By night and day,
The waves and spray,
The drifting foam and weed!

IN MEMORIAM
By CAPT. A. SEATON
Barrister-at-Law, Sidney

Life is transient and short, even at its longest span. Some enter by the eastern gate at an early part of their lives. Others enter by the southern gate in the prime of their years. Some enter by the northern gate through much stress and tribulation. But he who has just left us, and whose wonderful qualities can only be fully appreciated by those who knew him intimately, and the more intimately we know him, the greater those qualities appear—will be sorely missed. No situation was too difficult for him to meet on equal terms, with wisdom and with dignity. Yet no one was in circumstances so weak and humble that he or she could not enjoy his wonderful sympathy and benefit from his wise counsel. Now he has entered quietly by the western gate, at a very advanced age.

While he will be very much missed in this community and the country at large, yet his wonderful personality and accomplishments, as an early pioneer, have left footprints in the sands of time, which will be a treasured memory and a guide to us all as we travel over life's pathway.

UNEMPLOYMENT-INSURANCE

To the Editor:—The recent letter in your valuable paper by D. Frankham on non-contributory unemployment insurance is very timely. The federal government at the present session are I believe to bring in some form of unemployment insurance, and it is up to the workers to see that the kind that is made law would be of some value to them. Every worker should try to be at the conference at the hall at 617, Comorant Street on Friday February 23, to bring before the powers that be the necessity for an insurance—thru would be of value to both the employed and the unemployed.

THE EMDEN'S BELL

To the Editor:—A few days since The Coast publicized a letter, as the return of the Emden's bell to Germany on the suggestion of the writer, and as this matter has a distinct bearing on the ending of the war, and the ending and goodwill in human affairs, whether of a diplomatic nature or individually, we should avail ourselves of the opportunity before us, and see whether the return of the Emden's bell to Germany would be acceptable to her and at the same time to the Australian government.

These items in the eyes of other army or naval units have a certain definite place and sentimental value, and thus show our appreciation of a fine-spirited gesture just shown by the government of Germany in the return of the Gordon Highlander's Drums.

To the Editor:—The Council of the B.C. Historical Association is devoting some of the meetings of the association to popular subjects to be dealt with in a popular manner.

Ret., who first came to these waters in the auxiliary sailing corvette Champion in 1894 as a sub-lieutenant, now in the surveying vessel Egria about 1900 as a Lieutenant, and lastly as the commander of the Shearwater in 1912-1914, has consented to give his reminiscences of the time on Friday next, February 23. The reminiscences will be illustrated by lantern slides which have been made specially for the occasion from photographs out of the "fog of an old sail."

The meeting will be held upstairs in the Provincial Library in the Parliament Buildings at 8 p.m. Sharp. All the meetings are open to the general public without charge. At the same time those who find the lectures interesting are invited to become members and

COURT CASE ON COUNTRY HOME

Cotton-Beatty Action on $75,000 Qualicum Estate Reopened

Action of A. B. Cotton, of Victoria, to foreclose on the $75,000 country house and estate of forty acres belonging to Matthew Poole Beatty at Qualicum, was reopened before Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson of the Supreme Court here yesterday, when W. C. Moresby, K.C., counsel for Mr. Cotton, said there had been a misunderstanding yesterday when the application was up and that Mr. Beatty was to be represented after all.

A. D. Crease appeared for Mr. Beatty. "Mr. Beatty is one of those men who having a long list of stocks and shares, thought he had wealth," Mr. Crease said. "But now this country estate at Qualicum is all that is left of his wealth. It is the only asset he has. He is now working in London and money is being raised by his friends to pay off the $6,000 mortgage Mr. Cotton holds. I ask that this be postponed for three months when Mr. Cotton may have all his present anxieties relieved and Mr. Beatty may retain this home, which is his last bit of property. If there is a reasonable opportunity given, he will clean up the whole thing."

"This is the old story, just a sympathetic plea," Mr. Moresby objected. "Mr. Beatty took all his furniture with him when he went and is just speculating with this property. All Mr. Cotton wants is his money. We believe Mr. Beatty is in a position to pay as he has a post in London, and he has brothers in England who are wealthy people."

Mr. Crease asked for an adjournment to give him time to prepare an affidavit covering information from Mr. Beatty and the possibility of a California man coming to his aid. Mr. Beatty was now working for W. E. Lockley and Company, 106 Finch Street, London.

The judge pointed out that under Mr. Beatty the taxes were now three years and the interest eighteen months in arrears. The judge suggested that both sides might get together and talk the matter over.

"But I don't think I can satisfy Mr. Cotton," Mr. Crease said.

"What influences one is this case is that these people are not in possession and it is not their home," said the judge in giving Mr. Moresby leave to proceed with the foreclosure on the Qualicum estate in the interests of Mr. Cotton.

CHINA MAY HAVE SILVER EMBARGO

Associated Press
Shanghai, Feb. 21.—As a result of reports here that the United States government intends to raise the price of silver, the Chinese government is rumored to be considering an embargo on silver shipments from China. Chinese financial circles say they consider a higher silver price would not be favorable to China.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Rumors in Shanghai that the Chinese government might place an embargo on exports of silver, should Washington act to raise the world price, occasioned some surprise in silver circles here. It was recalled there had previously been opposition in some Chinese financial and commercial circles to raising the world price of the metal, on the theory it might have a deflationary influence in China.

EX-LIEUTENANT TO BE SENTENCED

Associated Press
San Francisco, Feb. 21.—An army court martial, sitting at Alcatraz Island here, had today found former Lieut. James W. Anderson of the United States army, guilty on a charge of absconding with Civilian Conservation Corps funds while in camp at Chatsworth, near Marysville, California. The court martial also found him guilty of desertion, embezzlement and failure to pay debts, acquitting him meanwhile on some minor charges. Anderson surrendered to Oakland police December 29, after having disappeared from the camp with store funds. The verdict of the court martial will be submitted to the reviewing board of the Ninth Corps area, which will determine the place of imprisonment if the verdict is upheld.

W. Scales Appointed Superintendent of Utilities at Courtenay

Courtenay, Feb. 21.—W. Scales, late of Fernie, B.C., was appointed superintendent of utilities and city engineer at the city council meeting here Monday evening. The appointment followed Mayor Simms' report on the water situation. According to the mayor, the situation has been satisfactory for the last six months; but now that the city is about to spend $10,000 on water improvements it is deemed advisable to have an engineer and superintendent in charge. Mr. Scales' appointment will be for six months, commencing March 1, at a salary of $120 per month. The relief work will continue for the time being under Mayor Simms, but later Mr. Scales will also assume the duties of relief officer.

The city audit shows that the school trustees' expenditures exceeded their revenue last year by $3,612. School estimates for this year should have been submitted to the city by February 15, but were not yet to hand, and it was explained that the illness of one of the trustees accounted for the delay. The chairman of the water committee reported that the water bond issue to provide $10,000 for the improvements to the city's water system would be offered in denominations of $100, and $500 at $95 per $100 unit. It is expected that the issue will be sold at a profit locally.

A comprehensive report was received from the volunteer fire department giving a good deal of information. Fires during the last year had numbered twenty-two, of which eleven were inside the city.

The proposed subdivisions and other matters, including the sale of the city's water system, were considered. The proposed subdivisions, which were being sent to Victoria to check property registrations, were considered.

Repairs to the Albany Hotel, damaged by fire last week, will be carried out at a cost of $1,100, the permit issued for the work by the city building inspector yesterday showed.

H. Catterall will make the repairs on the structure which sustained mostly roof damage in the blaze.

Owner permits issued yesterday included one for a $200 alteration at 1010 McClary Street, and two $50 jobs.

HAWKINS IS AGAIN HEAD TALENT OF NEW HOUSE VIEWED

Alderman Re-elected President of B.C. Agriculture Association

Attended by a large crowd which overflowed the council chamber of the City Hall, the annual meeting of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, at which annual reports were heard and new officers for the year were elected, was held yesterday evening.

Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins was unanimously re-elected as president of the association, after serving in that capacity for eighteen months. The five vice-presidents named were Mrs. E. W. Dacus, A. D. Paterson, H. Webb, Thomas Walker and Commander C. H. Stingsby, the latter being the only new official of this group. D. D. McTavish and W. T. Smith were also named as executive members to act with a committee of the president and three representatives of the City Council.

The following were named to the advisory board: Mrs. E. E. Arnold, G. W. Allison, A. Aylard, G. Attwood, M. Burdick, H. B. Burdick, A. H. Dohson, D. A. Doidge, J. B. Edwards, E. Greenwood, T. K. Harrop, E. C. Hawkins, J. F. Hanna, Miss J. Harvey, G. Jack, E. A. J. Macdonald, J. Naysmith, R. M. Palmer, T. Pearce, Frank H. Partridge, G. Pinner, E. Raper, R. Rendie, R. Rigby, G. Rogers, Mrs. E. Simmonds, J. M. Savory, J. S. Sir, Turner, Mrs. J. L. White, E. M. Whyte, R. K. Wood, and D. B. Carley, H. White-oak, Major Matthews, W. F. Bird, Col. Davidson, C. H. McTavish and Dr. G. Price, the latter seven being elected for the first time.

THANK OFFICERS
A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the retiring officers, particularly Mr. Hawkins and William H. Mearns, the managing secretary, both of whom were warmly praised for their untiring efforts for the benefit of the association.

The only other business of the meeting was the receiving of the financial statement and the president's report. The former showed a bank balance of $5,563.45, which represented approximately $500 greater than the balance shown in 1933.

Mr. Hawkins felt the association could look back upon a most successful year during 1933. Despite revenue drops in the form of government grants and gate receipts he was pleased to note the increased balance in the financial report. The attendance at the annual fair was 26,041, he stated, which represented a gross increase of 104 persons over the 1932 figures. This increase he attributed to the lower prices instituted during the last three days of the exhibition.

EXHIBITS INCREASED
He expressed appreciation of the wide variety of exhibits displayed at the fair, stating they had numbered 17,000, or 3,000 more than in 1932. He also noted as an encouraging feature.

It was hoped, he stated, to hold this year's fair from August 20 to 25 but recent developments had necessitated a change in these dates. Mr. Hawkins referred to the need of improved drainage conditions in the vicinity of the fairgrounds, and hoped the new executive would see its way clear this year to have this work done.

He regretted a slight decrease in the membership, which was 414, or thirty-two less than in 1932. He did not think this discouraging, however, in view of general conditions. In closing he thanked the general membership and the executive officers for the close co-operation they had given during the year.

Copies of the detailed financial statement were mailed to members and distributed at the meeting. Following the routine business meeting, Thomas "Scotty" Cresswell wanted to know whether or not the association would be prepared this year to meet over the racing track, in a situation similar to that which arose last year came up again. This situation referred to was the contemplated strike of the workmen who attended the local meet.

Mr. Mearns explained the association had no legal jurisdiction in this matter since the city had entered into a twelve-year agreement with the Colwood Park Racing Association to lease the Willows Park on the understanding that a new grandstand and race track would be constructed. Such a matter as Mr. Cresswell had referred to was entirely up to the City Council, he said.

FOR PROVINCE

Members of New Legislature
Pay Tribute to Late W. J. Bowser

The late W. J. Bowser was described by Premier Pattullo in the Legislature yesterday as a man of whom it could be said that he laid his life down in the service of British Columbia.

When the Premier moved the vote of regret over Mr. Bowser's passing and condolence to the surviving members of the family, he spoke of his long and devoted service, not only as a minister of the government, but as its leader. Even after he left the Legislature his whole mind was devoted to public service and he always showed himself an administrator of great experience.

Mr. H. P. Porter, who seconded the motion, declared when the history of British Columbia was written Mr. Bowser's name would go down as the hardest working Attorney-General and the best administrator of that office the province had ever seen. He was one of the finest debaters in the House, a great fighter who gave no quarter and asked no quarter, and a man honored by friends and enemies alike.

A standing silent vote of regret was taken.

Premier Expounds on Equipment and Responsibility of Legislature

The new Legislature of British Columbia strikes Premier T. D. Pattullo as one of the most talented in his lengthy experience, he told the House at the opening yesterday afternoon.

"For the last quarter of a century I have had intimate knowledge of our legislatures," he said in moving the adjournment. In others there were outstanding men, but by and large, this is the most talented I have known.

"It must be remembered, however, that from him who hath much will be expected," he added. "There is a large responsibility upon this House."

He singled out many members of the House for individual comment, starting with R. H. Pope, K.C., the dean of the Legislature, with additional reference to the three, including A. M. Manson, K.C., Ominca, Dr. W. H. Buthers, and Columbia-Revelstoke, and himself, who have served continuously for seventeen years, and others who have had varying experience.

RATES NEEDED

Public Debt Interest Charges
Grave Problem, Says V. L. Denton

Expressing the opinion that the reduction of interest charges on public indebtedness would have to come, and citing it as one of the many problems facing British Columbia, V. L. Denton, principal of the Provincial Normal School, addressed members of the Victoria Kinsmen Club at their birthday dinner meeting at the Empress Hotel yesterday evening, on problems contingent on the successful recovery of business in this vast Dominion.

The speaker asked if the government should continue to pay the same rate of interest to-day as it paid when wages were higher and times were better. He hoped that Premier Pattullo and the members of his ministry would go into the matter of interest rates at the present session of the House, with a view to having them reduced.

Australia has made the step in this direction and Mr. Denton felt that British Columbia should do the same.

"Where is the better security than the people of this country?" asked the speaker.

He said that he had no authority for the statement, but he had heard that the Federal Government had loaned the banks $39,000,000 at 3 per cent interest, and had, thereby, borrowed money from the banks at 3 per cent. Mr. Denton denounced such actions, and felt that it was time such things should be stopped.

ATTACKS FREIGHT RATES
The speaker attacked railway freight rates, paying particular attention to the difference in the export and domestic rate on grain. He stated that people in Shanghai could buy Canadian wheat cheaper in that country than people resident in New Westminster.

Freight rates are one of the many problems facing British Columbia and the Maritime provinces, said Mr. Denton. Yet there seems to exist a feeling that the reduction of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He pointed out that the C.P.R. had to get the government to back a $50,000,000 loan, but yet Premier Bennett has never shown any desire to discuss this matter in the House.

Either you are going in for public ownership in Canada or not. You don't run the country into the hole with transportation any more than you can with anything else," said Mr. Denton.

Another problem was the concentration of Canadian manufacturing between Montreal and Winnipeg. Ninety per cent of the furniture used in British Columbia is made in the east, the speaker stated.

"Is it a good thing that manufacturing for all Canada should be in one spot?" asked Mr. Denton.

The speaker dealt with the forcing of traffic lines east and west, and stated that the country's natural outline in ten years, or perhaps much sooner, Canada would have to tackle its geographical problems, as they affect industry and distribution costs of products.

Touching on the matter of finances, Mr. Denton stated that there was a concentration of all banking and financing between Montreal and Toronto. The west is being milked to feed the east, it is often said. If this is true we should go after it and get it straightened out. Apparently the government is handling the situation with long-handled tongs," said the speaker.

"In conclusion," said the speaker, "we will soon be getting members for the Legislature and the House of Commons who will honestly carry out the problems of the people as a whole."

High Francis thanked Mr. Denton for his address and expressed the hope that the club would be favored with a return visit in the near future.

HISTORY OF

K. C. Symons Presents Excellent Address on Famous Old Fortress in London

The history of the famous Tower of London, often romantic, frequently tragic to the noted characters incarcerated in it, received admirable treatment from K. C. Symons, principal of St. Michael's School in an address before the Victoria branch of the Royal Society of St. George yesterday evening.

The speaker included in his story the origin of the tower in the time of William the Conqueror and mentioned the position of the famous prison, near the centre of London between Tower Bridge and London Bridge, famous spans across the Thames.

Mr. Symons described the buildings, as seen from Tower Hill and conducted his hearers on an imaginary tour to its innermost strongholds. He spoke in some detail of the White Tower, once the strongest building in the world, constructed by Gundulf, a monk, at the order of William the Conqueror in 1078, the tower had walls eighteen feet thick and was virtually untouched by time.

OUTLINES TOWERS
He outlined the outer gates, the Middle Tower and the most built by Richard I and the outer wall, which contains some of the most famous towers of this ancient fort. Traitor's Gate, the King's Steps, St. Thomas' Tower, the latter now the residence of Sir George Younghusband, keeper of the Crown Jewels, the Cradle Tower, and Berlin Tower were all passed in review.

In the inner ward he described the Bell Tower, whence the curfew is sounded, and the room where Queen Elizabeth was once kept prisoner; the Bloody Tower, where the two princes were murdered; the Wakefield Tower, where the Crown Jewels are kept; Marston's Tower, the Lanthorn Tower, and the Broad Arrow Tower. Inside the courtyard itself are the barracks of the tower guard, known as Waterloo Barracks, and in the very heart of the group, the White Tower.

The torture chambers, St. John's Chapel, the old council chamber where Anne Boleyn was tried by Henry VIII and his advisers and the original quarters of the men-at-arms were sketched. The speaker related many stories of the tower and incidents which had occurred within its precincts, giving some time to the more famous executions conducted there.

Proceeding to the main address, Rev. T. B. Lancaster, president of the Victoria branch, spoke on the difference between broadcasting in Britain under the B.C. Act and the system in force in the United States.

Young People's Church Societies

FIRST UNITED Y.P.S.

Under the auspices of the citizenship committee an enjoyable meeting was held by First United Church Young People's Society Monday evening at the Victoria Y.M.C.A. in the chair.

V. L. Denton spoke on "Ideals of Citizenship." He was introduced by Miss Margaret Purves.

Mr. Denton stressed the need for education which enabled a person to form independent judgment; to recognize both sides of a question and to realize the responsibilities of citizenship. He suggested that an ideal of citizenship was absolute honesty and integrity of purpose in personal dealings and in public office.

Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson expressed the hope that the society would continue the high standard of its programmes and that success would attend its efforts.

The resignation of the president, W. Gordon Robson, was regretfully accepted, and a standing vote of appreciation was taken in token of his excellent work and helpfulness in the society.

English was unanimously elected to be president for the balance of the season.

Miss Margaret Jones conducted the devotional period, speaking in an inspiring way on the subject of reasonable Christian citizenship.

Next week's meeting will be in charge of the literary committee, and there will be a debate in the interclass series for the challenge cup. Announcement was made of the oratorical contest to be held in Metropolitan United Church on February 27 at 8 p.m. A speaker has been entered by First United Church Y.P.S., and all members and friends of the society are urged to be present at the contest.

KNOX C.G.I.T. BANQUET
The Canadian Girls in Training of Knox Presbyterian Church held their mother and daughter banquet on Friday, fifty mothers and daughters being present.

The supper was served on tables beautifully decorated with pink carnations and yellow daffodils. During the banquet, the toast to the Church, proposed by Mona Allen, was responded to by Miss Sutherland, and the toast to the Mothers, given by Dorothy Barnes, was replied to by Mrs. Wiltshire.

Mrs. J. S. Patterson was chairman for the programme. A piano duet by Dorothy Barnes was greatly applauded, as was the duet, "Junita," sung by Hilda Watson and Mary Scott. A humorous sketch, "Lord Vill's Daughter," by the junior girls, was thoroughly enjoyed.

"Little Sir Echo" was sung by Thelma Wiltshire and Jessie Scott, then followed the singing of "Mother," "Old King Cole," "Follow the Glean" and other C.G.I.T. songs. A great deal of enthusiasm was evidenced over the piano solo by Hilda Watson. The senior girls gave a very clever sketch entitled "Entre a la Radio." Cathie Foubister ably played the accompaniment for all the songs on the programme.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA TALKS SECESSION

Western Australia in seeking secession from the Australian Confederation was thrown out yesterday by Premier Richard L. Butler of South Australia.

Speaking in the conference of state Premiers under chairmanship of Prime Minister J. A. Lyons of Australia, Premier Butler emphasized the financial difficulties the smaller states are experiencing under the Commonwealth constitution.

Over $40,000,000 worth of damage was done in the British Isles by fire in 1931. The curvature of the earth amounts to seven inches per mile.

Why Do Modern Marriages So Frequently End in the Divorce Court?—Because We Demand of Our Life Partners That They Shall Be Heroes and Vamps as Well as Cooks and Money-Makers, and if They Don't Suit We Up and Leave Them

A CORRESPONDENT asks why there are so many more divorces now than there were in the past, and why marriage does not seem "to take" on modern men and women and give them a life immunity against the charms of ramps and sheiks, as it did on their forebears.

The reason is obvious. It is because we are not so easily satisfied with marriage as our grandparents were. We demand more of it, as we demand more comforts and luxuries and indulgences in every way than they ever dreamed of. Also, we are more impatient of restrictions. We have less fortitude in enduring afflictions. And we have found out that there is neither sense nor virtue in needless suffering. We no longer revere the martyr's crown. We consider it a dunce cap.

There is a general belief, that is part of the myth about the good old times that are gone, that formerly all marriages were happy; that husbands and wives never wearied of each other or ceased to love, but lived to their golden wedding day in a long-drawn-out honeymoon. It is likewise one of our cherished traditions that in our grandfathers' and grandmothers' time all men made model husbands and all women were paragons of wives. Hence there were few divorces because all married people lived in a conjugal heaven.

Unfortunately, however, these illusions about the golden days of matrimony have no foundation in fact. Human nature hasn't changed and marriage was no more a ticket to the haven of the pious in the past than it is in the present. There were always uncontentious couples who got together; antagonistic temperaments that rubbed each other the wrong way; always husbands and wives who fought from the altar to the grave for mastery; always tyrannical husbands and nagging wives.

And grandpapa was a philanderer with a wandering foot just as often as grandson is. And grandmamma was just as bored with staid grandpa as granddaughter is with her tired Business Man and wondered just as often whatever made her do it.

But there was no Rembrandt in the map in those days, and nobody had thought of "mental cruelty" as a way out, and, anyway, divorce was one of the things that simply wasn't done in our best circles. Therefore, the disgruntled husband and wife went on, year after year, dragging their ball and chain, fighting together, hating each other, but never breaking the bond that bound them together.

The ratio of happy marriages in those days was no greater than it is now. There were more marriages that were endurance tests, but that does not prove that marriage is a decadent institution. It only shows that it has changed with changing customs.

One advantage our grandparents had. Marriage with them was not the de luxe affair it is now. They took it in their stride as a matter of course and expected as soon as the knot was tied to settle down into a humdrum partnership that would endure as long as life lasted and in which they had to make the best of their bargain because there was no way of getting out of it.

No one then had originated the idea that a wife required to be continually assured of her husband's affection and that he must remain an impassioned lover and feed her on angel's food as well as ham and eggs. Nor had the propaganda gone forth that a wife must keep herself slim and beautiful and young, no matter how old she got or how much she lost her complexion, and that it was her duty continually to vamp her husband as well as to cook and sew and baby-tend for him.

Neither had the movies taught us that life without thrills was child's ashen dust, and that in addition to being good providers and good housewives our mates must be able to keep us in a state of perpetual palpitation.

All of this made marriage in the past a much less strenuous occupation than it is at present. Now it calls for an expert, and one with a gift for it. Then almost any sort of amateur could turn out a fairly satisfactory job.

If grandfather was reasonably kind and considerate and brought home the bacon, grandmother was satisfied. She didn't bother about whether he was her affinity or not. She didn't expect him to hold her hand and repeat poetry to her. She didn't sit with her fingers on her pulse counting her heart throbs and wondering if they hadn't slowed down since she married.

She folded away her romantic notions with her bridal veil and never thought of casting a husband who was a good bill-payer and pleasant to live with into the discard because he didn't come up to her ideal of a Fairy Prince.

Nor was grandfather any more exacting in his demands upon his wife. He didn't expect grandmother to stay forever sweet and twenty. He didn't expect her to be a versatile variety performer who would spend her time keeping him interested and amused. His affection for her didn't hang on her waistline nor depend on the number of chins she possessed.

He felt that he had got a good wife if she was amiable and sweet-tempered and a good housekeeper and looked well after her children, and he no more expected her to use the arts of a siren upon him than he expected her to be a grand-opera singer or a tight-rope walker.

But the modern men and women are not satisfied for their mates to be just plain ordinary people like themselves, with just the plain homely virtues. They want husbands and wives who are money-makers and good cooks, and who are, in addition, heroes and living pictures and spellbinders and thrillers, and who possess perpetual youth. They seek the impossible and that is why there are so many divorces.

FALSE NEWS IS BASIS OF CHARGE

Canadian Press.
St. Thomas, Ont., Feb. 21.—Jean Crandall, or Eugene Dickinson, the young "widow" who last week circulated a story he had inherited $500,000 from a late grandmother in Chicago and then announced "I'm a girl," was remanded until Friday when he appeared in police court here Monday.

The man was arrested originally on a charge of "wilfully and knowingly publishing false news where injury or mischief was likely to be occasioned to some public interest." The charge, laid under section 136 of the Criminal Code, is applied generally to seditious activity.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1934

Adverse planetary influences appear to dominate today, especially in the hours. This is a holiday in which to rejoice in looking backward over the achievements of the nation.

Neptune is in an unfriendly aspect that suggests much controversy and misrepresentation in business as well as political quarters. Congress may be disturbed by bitter debates, but its members will be united in all that is most important for public welfare, the stars forecast.

Heavy storms in many parts of the country are forecast and peril to those who travel by land and sea is predicted. Under this rule of the stars there may be many accidents, for the stars seem to encourage the unexpected. Falls may cause serious injuries.

The way may cause super-sensitiveness and irritability. Family harmony may be easily disrupted. The wise will think twice before they speak.

Fire and other destructive agencies usually are more prevalent than in ordinary times when this configuration is active. Violent crimes may multiply as the winter ends.

Revival of old pastimes and ancient customs which have marked social affairs will be evident in the coming summer, when there will be many informal entertainments centering in homes.

Industry is subject to stimulating influences that should benefit workers. Leisure hours are to be employed in many novel educational experiments, stargazing, for example.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the luxury of a year of fair prosperity. Disputes of jealousy, slander and litigation is to be avoided.

Children born on this day may be especially interested in poetry and philosophy. Subjects of this sign are usually systematic.

NEEDLE THREADER OF ALBERTA LEADS

Edmonton, Feb. 21.—The honorable and ancient art of needle threading, which is fast becoming a popular indoor sport, has a new title claimant to-day. He is Louis Kartz of Wetaskiwin, Alberta, who put 160 strands of medium heavy silk thread through the eye of a needle 13-64 of an inch in length. The University of Alberta has a needle-threading team and a member, Otto Staples, placed 260 strands of cotton thread through the eye of a darning needle. But Louis says it does not count. Otto used a needle with an eye almost twice the size of Louis's.

INQUIRY INTO U.S. CONTRACTS

Associated Press

Washington, Feb. 21.—Pushing quietly ahead without the fanfare that marked the airmail contract hearings, a grand jury is inquiring exhaustively into lobbying—if such there were—in connection with big United States army contracts.

One report circulated to-day was that at least five persons may be indicated before the grand jury ends its investigation.

Representative Hamilton Fish, New York Republican, bitter critic of airmail contract cancellation, asked publicly yesterday evening if the airmail action was not "a smoke screen to cover up irregularities in the War Department now under investigation by a grand jury."

Officials have consistently refused to discuss it.

Victims of the Fenian Raid and of the Riel Rebellion, George Charles Mannix passed away yesterday afternoon at a nursing home after a long illness, closing a long and colorful life of nearly eighty-nine years.

Born in Cork, Ireland, in 1845 Mr. Mannix came to Canada at the age of seventeen years with his brother, Arthur. For eight years he lived in the province of Quebec, and at the time of the Fenian Raid, joined the volunteers who fought against the Fenians. Shortly afterwards the Riel Rebellion broke out and Mr. Mannix again answered the call to service, fighting in the Second Battalion, Quebec Rifles.

When order was restored, Mr. Mannix settled in Manitoba, taking up farming near Stonewall. In 1872 he married Frances Bunn.

In 1904 Mr. and Mrs. Mannix and their family removed to the Pacific Coast, coming to Victoria to live.

For some years they alternated between residence in Victoria and Saanich, and from 1907 to 1909 he served on the Saanich Council. For some years Mr. Mannix had lived in retirement, latterly at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Toms, 3378 Douglas Street.

ORPHEUS CHOIR MAKES DEBUT

Presents Excellent Programme at Initial Performance

The Victoria Orpheus Choir made an auspicious beginning in its initial appearance before a local audience yesterday evening at the First United Church.

The chorus numbered nearly seventy voices, and, under the leadership of W. C. Fyfe, selected a beautiful work, "Coleridge-Taylor's 'A Tale of Old Japan,'" adapted from the poem of Alfred Noyes, worthy of the fame of the composer of "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," and other works, all of which individuality that is hard to believe will ever sink into oblivion.

Because of their many beautiful and characteristic of Coleridge-Taylor's unique style, there is in this cantata such warmth of coloring, rhythmic insistence and originality in treatment that one regretted it should have been presented without an orchestra, for which Coleridge-Taylor wrote so well and effectively.

Nevertheless, its performance yesterday was adequate and excellent under the circumstances, and gave many evidences of the choir's adaptability, confidence and pliability. It was evident, too, in Conductor Fyfe, that his long experience has taught him how to produce the best from his singers, all of which prime matters that augur soundly and well for any future performances the Orpheus Choir may undertake.

The choir, however, hardly found itself until it had reached the soprano solo and chorus, "Swift to Learn," and from there on the intricate progressions and harmonies were undertaken so confidently and with greater precision and vigor, albeit, and peculiarly enough with Mr. Fyfe's particular keenness in this respect, there were still some difficulties in an easy delivery of the work, which in one or two instances especially did not come over at all well.

The local market is not yet producing much, except cauliflower and small quantities of cucumbers. In a few weeks, however, it will be in full spring. In the week's time, the total supplies of cauliflower for the whole of British Columbia will be from Victoria. Only one more import shipment of it is expected at Vancouver.

The highland cucumber which is beginning to be produced locally is still at a relatively high price, but is also exceptionally early.

The local spinach is not yet fully grown, but is coming on fast, and will be soon taking the place of the imported stuff.

Green peas are coming in easier, with a good demand, and will lower their prices in the course of the next few weeks.

Other vegetables being received from abroad include new potatoes and tomatoes, arriving from the Bahamas. A feature of the week in the market is the new price of rhubarb. This is going so cheap at present that wholesalers report sales over three times as great as last week. This low level will only be available till Saturday, when a rise in price is expected. The rhubarb is grown on the mainland and is reported very good quality.

Other vegetables arriving this week included a splendid lot of asparagus, which is expected to be in the market by Saturday. The price of this fruit remains high as wholesalers watch the outcome of the Stabilization Board case in Vancouver.

A shill-out of winter apples is expected Saturday. The price of this fruit remains high as wholesalers watch the outcome of the Stabilization Board case in Vancouver.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Vancouver Is Home of Many Former Famous Footballers

Large Number of Them Still Active in Provincial Soccer

Australia Makes No Change in Her Davis Cup Tennis Team

TWENTY-ONE football players who earned names for themselves in first-class football in Great Britain are now residents of Vancouver, according to a recent review of their careers made by Charlie Foster, soccer expert of the Vancouver Province. Several of these players are still active while others have gone on the retired list. A number of them have played leading roles in the successes of British Columbia eleven in recent years.

George "Geordie" Wilson played with Cowdenbeath, Hearts, Everton, Belfast Distillery, Newcastle United, Raith Rovers and East Fife; he was capped three times for Scotland against England, twice against Wales and once against Ireland; was a member of the Hearts team which won the Scottish Cup in 1904-05 and of the Newcastle United eleven which won the English Cup in 1909-10. Dave Wilson, brother of "Geordie," was another member of the Hearts' cup-winning team and also played for Glasgow, Rough Trinity, Cowdenbeath, Everton and Portsmouth.

Jimmy Watson was one of the famous pair of Sunderland backs, Watson and McCormick. He obtained four caps for Scotland against England, one against Wales and another against Ireland, and also holds a Scottish Cup medal. After coming to this province he managed the Nanaimo City eleven for several seasons, including two years in which they won the Canadian championship. Andy Watson saw service with Bolton Wanderers and Bradford City. Billy Watson, a right-back, was with Belfast Distillery and Shelbourne, secured two inter-league caps for Ireland against England, 1906-07, and 1907-08. The three Watsons are not related.

Dave Cummings was a member of the Old Heart of Midlothian and Hibernian teams and one of the first professionals to cross the border into England when he went with Everton. Another Old Heart and St. John's living in Vancouver is Sandy Lamb. George Russell, star centre-half of New Westminster Rogues, when they were carrying everything before them in Canadian soccer, and now with North Shore United, also played with Hearts. Jimmy Jones played half for Tottenham Hotspurs. Dave Johnston saw service with Stenhousemuir, George McKay played centre-forward with Port Glasgow Athletic and St. John's in England. Andy McLean was with Renton, Aberdeen, Heart of Midlothian and Preston North End. He came to Canada he played three seasons with Calgary Hillhurst during which time they were new champions. Archie Boyd was goalie with Hearts. Harold Singleton guarded the nets for Aston Villa. Dave Kenny was with Bristol Rovers and Grimsby Town. He played left-half with Nantawm when they won the Canadian title in 1926. Jack Clarke, left half, played for Midlothian, Dundee United and Carlisle United as inside left. He was with Nantawm in their Dominion championship years. Harry Ambler was outside left with Aberdeen and Heart of Midlothian. Maxie Reid was with Belfast Distillery and New Brighton. Jerry Dean, at one time with Fort William, was outside right for Notts County for several seasons. Harry Allen gained his Scottish cap against Wales in 1902 while with Heart of Midlothian. Jack Irvine, who manages Vancouver St. George's, played with Arsenal and Montrose.

Australia's Davis Cup tennis team to challenge in the European zone this year has been selected as follows: J. H. Crawford (N.S.W.), V. G. McGrath (N.S.W.), A. K. K. (South Australia), and D. P. Turnbull (South Australia). It is the same team that reached the final of the European zone last year and lost to Great Britain at Wimbledon. Crawford, McGrath and Kist were certain but there was some doubt whether the fourth place would go to Turnbull or Hopman. But it is stated that Hopman will be available if any one of the others withdraws. Australians will be more interested in Wimbledon than ever this year as Crawford will be defending his title. Most people in England would love to see another Crawford-Perry duel—this time for the most coveted individual honor in lawn tennis. Perry has beaten Crawford three times under championship conditions in the finals of the United States, Victoria and Australian championships. Crawford, who still holds the Wimbledon and French titles, has one victory over Perry, but that was only in a three-set match.

Police Separate Shore and Graham In Boston Battle

Battles Seen in Two Other Games; Montreal Canadiens Whip Toronto 3 to 2

DETROIT WIDENS DIVISION LEAD

Edged-temperatures that flare easily in the nerve-racking last weeks of the schedule left several National Hockey League players nursing bruises and bumps to-day after the roughest night the circuit had seen in weeks. Fists flew along a wide front as three teams battling for two Canadian division playoff berths won games and Detroit Red Wings increased their lead over Chicago in the United States division to four points.

Eddie Shore, the famous battling Bruin, ended the Boston game, won by Red Wings 4 to 1, in a tangle with Teddy Graham. The pair wrestled and punched on the ice and renewed the brawl in the penalty box until police separated them.

Happy Day, Toronto Leaf captain, who usually wears a cool head, stepped into an argument between his teammate Charlie Conacher and Pete Lepine and got a major penalty for attacking the Canadian.

At Ottawa, where Montreal Maroons won 4 to 2, Maroons and Jerry Shannon, Ottawa, put on one fist fight and then Sid Howe, of the Senators, and Dave Trotter, staged another.

JOLIAT GETS WINNER. The old partnership of Aurel Joliat and Howie Morenz, most lasting in the league, gave Canadian fans a fourth win in six games with Toronto by beating Leafs, 3 to 2, at Montreal. They paired in the overtime when Dave Conacher and Lepine were in the penalty box to score the winning goal, Morenz feeding Joliat the pass.

In the closest game of the night, Joe Simpson's defensive methods beat those of the old master at that sort of thing, Tommy Gorman, and New York Americans took a 3 to 1 decision from Chicago.

Detroit flew to a 3 to 0 advantage in the first period of the Boston game and then coasted home without any trouble. Herb Lewis, from Calgary, scored the first goal on Larry Aurie's shot, and then Aurie got the second on his own hook. Doug Young tallied the third. Marty Barry scored Boston's only goal in the second period and Lewis and Lepine were in the penalty box.

Only 1,500 persons showed up to watch the section-leading team and the cellar-outfit play.

PENALTIES COSTLY. The game was costly to Toronto in the Montreal affair. King Clancy was off when Johnny Gagnon scored the Habitan's first goal, and again when Leo Bourque scored the second. Joe Primeau and Andy Blair tallied Leafs' goals in the first period after Gagnon's score and Bourque's came in the second.

A serious outbreak threatened throughout the rough Ottawa game. But the officials, Odie Cleghorn and Joseph Daigault, held the players in check. Maroons scored four goals in the first period through Steve Evans, Cain, Baldy Northcott and Dave Trotter. Cook paved the way for the only Chicago marker.

Paul Haynes scored the only goal of the second period and Northcott got his second in the first minute of the final session. Two Niagara Falls players, Max Kaminsky and Jeff Kalbfleisch, combined for the second Ottawa goal.

Only 6,000 saw the Americans beat the New Yorkers took a two-goal lead in the first period through goals by Normie Himes and Deed Kleckley. Eddie Burke got their third in the first period. Lou Trudel's pass to Tommy Cook paved the way for the only Chicago marker.

Boston - Thompson, Wilcox, Shore, Barry, Seibert, Clapper, Beattie, Stewart, Lamb, Horne, O'Neill, Oliver, Galbraith, Smith and Lane.

Detroit - Cude, Young, Goodfellow, Weiland, Lewis, Aurie, Graham, Wiseman, Bissell, Carson, Sorrell, Gross, Emma, Pettigrew and Starr.

Officials - Ag Smith and Jack Cameron.

SUMMARY. First period - 1, Detroit, Lewis (Aurie), 2:32; 2, Detroit, Aurie, 16:18; 3, Detroit, Young, 19:18. Penalties: None.

Second period - 4, Boston, Barry (Trudel), 1:59. Penalties: None.

ANGELES ELKS TO PLAY HERE

Smart U.S. Basketball Team Will Meet Blue Ribbons Saturday Evening

Port Angeles Elks, smooth-working edge team, will make their debut before Victoria fans at the Victoria High School gymnasium Saturday night when they stack up against the Blue Ribbons.

Carrying four ex-college stars on their playing roster, Port Angeles Elks, one of the highest-scoring independent teams in the state of Washington, will be expected to give the Ribbons a tough battle all of the way. The visitors are noted for their fast breaking attack, shooting ability and excellent team work.

Holding down the pivot position for the visitors will be Nallor, former High School star, and high-scorer of the club. Planking him will be Rupert and Helmberger, former Montana state and Washington state players, respectively. With such a trio of smart ball handlers, the Ribbons defence will be in for a busy time.

For guard duty, the visiting Elks will have McLennan, Vancouver, former Washington state regular, in their starting line-up. Six reserves, including Campbell, Hickey, Sutton, Kvan and Soderberg will all be in uniform and ready to step into the fray at a moment's notice. Morris Caye is assistant manager of the club.

Art Chapman, tip-off star of the Ribbons, will be back in the line-up after being forced out of action since January when an injured leg kept him from the team.

The goal came a minute before the end and was the only bright spot of an otherwise dull game.

Winnipeg Exchange

Canadian Press—Winnipeg, Feb. 21.—Buyers got into the wheat market at the bottom on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, to-day, and values reacted from a 1/4-cent decline to stand only 1/4 cent off at the close.

A firm tone was displayed at the finish. May wheat ended at 66 1/2, with July wheat at 66 1/2, with July wheat at 66 cents.

Houses with eastern connections were credited with most of the selling, which was supplemented by offerings for Chicago account. It was hard to determine whether the purchasing at bottom levels was against export sales or not.

Traders did not place a figure on the movement of wheat abroad. Operations
